Divine & Human Nature*

The life of John Donne, poet, preacher and Dean of St. Paul's in London, spanned the reigns of three monarchs. Contemporary with Shakespeare, Richard Hooker, and priest and poet George Herbert, John Donne lived and worked in the most formative period of the Book of Common Prayer and the Church of England. Considered one of the Anglican Divines, John Donne helped to define Anglicanism. This seminar is intended to introduce you to the person of John Donne, his life and works, and by eaves-dropping on Donne's conversations with God, might somehow find our own conversation with God in Christ nourished and deepened.
